Water-Ballast is only allowed for the Standard Class:

It can be filled, without cost, from a tank near the trailers. Note that the maximum weight for Standard Class may be reduced for safety reasons.

Number of Entries permitted per NAC:

Two pilots per class per country.

Please note that in allowing reserve pilots, it is not intended to allow more than two pilots per class per country.

The intention of the Annex A rule (7.3.1) is that only two pilots be accepted from each NAC and that reserve pilots may only replace nominated pilots who withdraw.

The maximum age: a pilot may not have been born before 1976.

This means that the maximum age is 25 years. Pilots who reach the age of 26 after the Second World Junior Gliding Championships but before the end of the year 2001 cannot compete, unfortunately. This is a rule set by the International Gliding Commission in the Sporting Code Section 3. http://www.fai.org/sporting_code/sc3.html.
Once again : a pilot must have been born in 1976 or later.

The Second World Junior Gliding Championships 2001 has two classes : Club Class and Standard Class.

The FAI Standard Class consists of Discus I / II, LS-7, LS-8, SZD-55, ASW-24 and DG-303. The Rules for Standard Class are written in the Sporting Code Section 3 Chapter 6 (6.6.2.3)

The FAI Club Class is handicapped and includes LS-4 and DG-300. Gliders with a very low handicap can compete but will fly with a handicap 96 (minimum 96). Rules for Club Class conform with SC Section 3 6.6.2.5. The proposed handicap, to be accepted by IGC in March 2001, is like the DAeC handicap list.
